BALTIMORE GETS 1912 CONVENTION

Democrats Vote to Go to Oriole City.

JUNE 25 THE MEETING DATE

The Untrifled to Assemble
One Week After Republican Convention.

A FINE BUILDING TO MEET IN

Washington, Jan. 12.—The Democratic National Convention, the date of which was set this morning for June 25, was awarded this afternoon to Baltimore over St. Louis, Denver, Chicago and New York. Baltimore offered a certified check for $100,000.

Two ballots were taken. On the first Baltimore received 25 votes, St. Louis 19, Chicago 3, Denver 6 and New York 1.

On the second ballot Baltimore received 29 votes, St. Louis 22 and Chicago 1. This gave Baltimore a clear majority and the decision then was made unanimous.

The first business transacted was to decide that the convention should be held June 25, one week after the Republican National Convention. At this time the place of the convention had not been determined.

Denver made the first bid for the convention, Charles F. Franklin, of that city, addressing the committee at length. Denver offered reasonable and necessary expenses for the convention and promised to be liberal. Mr. Franklin asserted that Denver had the best convention hall in the country.

Chicago next had its innings. Rogers Sullivan, amid laughter and applause, said he had the unprecedented pleasure of introducing to the Democratic committee Fred W. Upham, of Chicago, assistant treasurer of the Republican National Committee.

Mr. Upham argued at some length for Chicago, and when he had concluded, some one proposed that he be made an honorary member of the Democratic Committee. There was more applause, but no vote on this suggestion. J. Hamilton Lewis closed the argument for Chicago, dwelling at length upon the advantages of that city and its experience in handling national conventions.

Chicago, in addition to defraying the expenses of the convention, offered a contribution of $40,000 to the Democratic campaign fund. This announcement caused a stir and apparently increased Chicago's chances materially.

Baltimore's bid followed Chicago's. Representative Talbot, of Maryland, made the opening speech and Senator Raymer pursued the argument.

The claims of St. Louis were presented by E. F. Goltz, former Governor David B. Francis, Rolla Wells and James E. Smith. St. Louis offered to be more liberal in appropriations for the convention than ever before, but no definite amount was offered.

Edward M. Tierney then spoke for New York. As soon as the New York bid was in, the committee began balloting.

O. F. Hershey spoke for Robert Crain, chairman of the Baltimore Committee, and called out a storm of cheers when he drew from his inside pocket a certified check for $100,000 and laid it upon the table. The demonstration continued for a minute or more.

Baltimore's Armory an Admirable Place.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 12.—The Democratic Convention of 1912, which the party's national committee has awarded to Baltimore, will be held in the Fifth Regiment Armory, Baltimore's largest auditorium. The armory is an imposing structure of granite surmounted by a vaulted roof which rises 106 feet above the main floor.

Having an area of 200 by 300 feet, the main, or drill hall, architectural experts say, will seat comfortably more than 12,000 persons, allowing ample space for promenades, aisles, etc. There are two balconies and, if necessary, by the erection of raised platforms at either end of the building, the seating capacity can be increased to more than 20,000 persons. Experts say the acoustic properties can be made almost perfect for a hall of its size.

The company rooms, twenty-one in number, grouped in suites, are admirably adapted for committee rooms, and the gymnasium, immediately behind the place where the stage will stand, will be set apart for the press.

The armory is situated in the northern part of the city, and is within easy walking distance of the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio railroad stations. It is fifteen minutes' ride by street car from the business center of the city.

THE OLDEST PHYSICIAN IN THE STATE IS DEAD

Campbellburg, Ky., Jan. 12.—Dr. F. J. Yager, probably the oldest resident of Henry county, died here this morning of the infirmities of age. He was ninety-six years old. Dr. Yager was born in Oldham county in 1812, and for a few years practiced medicine in Jefferson town. However, he moved to this county sixty-three years ago and has since been one of the most active men in this section. He is survived by four children: F. S. Yager, of California; Ernest Yager, of Louisville; Dr. Arthur Yager, president of Georgetown College, and Mrs. B. R. Milan, of Florida.

He was a prominent Mason and his funeral at 11 o'clock to-morrow will be conducted by that order.

NEVER SPOKE DURING TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

Maysville, Ky., Jan. 13.—The death of Louis Roser here yesterday disclosed a family secret, which was that absolute silence had been maintained between husband and wife for the past twenty-five years. This was broken last Sunday, when his wife asked her husband to have a cup of coffee and he replied that he would. In a few moments he was attacked with heart trouble, dying a short time afterward.

He willed all his vast properties to his wife, and he asked that his body be cremated and the ashes cast to the winds off the Cincinnati suspension bridge. The body will be sent to a crematory to-morrow.

"Charles Dickens and Women."

By the late Henry Snowden Ward. The recent sudden death in New York of Mr. Henry Snowden Ward, the distinguished Secretary of the Dickens Fellowship in England, is a sincerely deplored in America as in the land of his birth. His delightful lectures on Dickens and Shakespeare have been popular literary features of this season; and one of his latest acts was the preparation of an illuminating article for Lippincott's Magazine on "Charles Dickens and Women," which will be published in February when the Dickens centenary is due.

His Opinion.

"What do you think of a husband who deceives his wife?"
"He's a mighty smart man."

RECENT NOTABLE CASES OF "THAT STILL SMALL VOICE"

BOSTON, MASS., JANUARY 3, 1912.

"Deeply penitent for my sin, and earnestly desiring, as far as in my power lies, to make atonement, I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offense of which I stand indicted. I am moved to this course by no inducement of self-benefit or leniency. Helious as is my crime, God has not wholly abandoned me, and my conscience and manhood, however depraved and blighted, will not admit of my still further wronging by a public trial her whose pure young life I have destroyed. Under the lashings of remorse I have suffered and am suffering the tortures of the damned. In this I find a measure of comfort. In my mental anguish I recognize that there is still, by the mercy of the Master, some remnant of the Divine spark of goodness lingering with me. I could wish to live only because within some prison's walls I might, in some small measure, redeem my sinful past, help some other despairing soul, and at last find favor with my God. You are instructed to deliver this to the District Attorney, or to the Judge of the Court. Sincerely yours,
"CLARENCE V. T. RICHESON."

SOME STATISTICS ON OUR BILLION-DOLLAR SCHOOLS

Value of National Educational Plant Has Doubled in Ten Years.

The amount of money invested in schools in this country has increased enormously during the last decade. The value of public school property, which was about $550,000,000 in 1900, had doubled ten years later.

During the same period the annual income increased from $229,000,000 to $425,000,000, while the annual appropriations to teachers grew from $2,769,000 to $6,620,000. The average length of the public school term was extended from 144 to 156 days, and the average attendance of children enrolled increased from 99 to 114 days. The public high schools, which numbered 6,005 in 1900, were 10,213 in number in 1910. The number of teachers in those schools advanced from about 20,000 to more than 41,000, while the total number of public school teachers increased from 423,000 to 512,000 in the course of the decade.

The salaries of teachers were augmented during the ten-year period, those of men teachers increasing from $46.50 per month in 1900 to $65 per month in 1910, and those of women teachers from $34 to $52 per month. The number of pupils in high schools showed a marked gain, numbering 900,000 in 1910, as compared with 520,000 in 1900.

The productive fund of universities, colleges and technical schools increased from $166,175,000 to $273,425,000, and the annual income of those institutions from sources other than endowment was augmented from $28,500,000 to $77,800,000 in the ten-year period.

The students in those establishments grew in number from 110,000 to 183,000, and the instructors from 7,300 to 17,000. In the higher educational institutions it will be noticed the increase in the number of teachers was proportionately greater than the growth in the number of students. [Bradstreet's.]

Asking Too Much.

"My dear," said Mr. Clarkson, "I don't want you to think I have any desire to criticize you for the way you manage, but, really, we must try to live within our income."
"Within our income? Goodness! And be regarded by everybody in our set as eccentric?"

Will Persist in Trying It.

"What is an optimist, pa?"
"An optimist is a man who comes home late and thinks he can get in without his wife knowing it."

ANTI-TRUST LAW BROKEN BY BURLEY SOCIETY

Of Kentucky—Federal Ruling
On the Interstate Commerce Pact.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 12.—In an opinion handed down by Judge Howard Hollister, of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Ohio, to-day, he declared that contracts entered into by the Burley Tobacco Society with the purchasers of the pooled Burley tobacco were in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law in that part which concerns interstate commerce.

The opinion came after an argument in the suit of the E. O. Eshelby Tobacco Company, of Cincinnati, against the Burley Tobacco Society for damages alleged to have been sustained in the pooling and selling of the 1907 crop of Burley tobacco at Winchester, Ky.

In his opinion Judge Hollister ruled that the tobacco pooled by the Burley Tobacco Society was intended necessarily for use in interstate commerce, had always been so intended and subsequently was used in interstate commerce; that the Burley Society fixed a price on this tobacco and refused to accept any price other than the one fixed and that this act is considered by him to be in violation of that portion of the Sherman anti-trust law which concerns interstate commerce.

THE WHALE COUGHED UP A SMALL FORTUNE

Brockton, Mass., Jan. 12.—William H. White, of No. 28 Chapel street, Brooklyn, N. Y., considers that he has certainly come into real good fortune. White is the man who, while walking along Nantasket Beach one day recently, came across a large chunk of some foreign substance which he took home, suspecting he had something valuable.

Breaking off a piece of the strange mass, he brought it to City Chemist Charles B. Bolling for analysis. Mr. Bolling subjected the matter to a number of careful tests, and finally discovered that it yielded all the properties of ambergris, that precious matter that is used in cologne making. The standard rate for ambergris is $60 an ounce, so the mass White found is worth $19,200.

"Nothing takes the place of ambergris in the finer grades of perfumery," said Bolling. "The matter was coughed up by a sick whale, and because of its scarcity it is very valuable."

BIG LAND DEAL CLOSED IN HOPKINS COUNTY

John T. Hopkins returned Friday night from Hopkins county, where he has been as agent for the Henderson National Bank in closing a deal for the sale of 1,300 acres of land in the southern part of Hopkins county between Nortonville and Dawson, known as the Clore land. It is a tract the Clores bought several years ago, being heavily timbered at the time. The timber has been removed, but much of the land is available for farming purposes. The land was purchased by N. K. Toy, George, Joe and Hugh Toy, of this county. The Toy farm in the Anthoston neighborhood was exchanged as part payment. Mr. Toy and sons, Joe and Hugh, will move to the newly purchased property. It is their purpose to improve and sell it off in smaller tracts. It is understood.—[Henderson Gleaner.]

A Hero in a Lighthouse.

For years J. S. Donahue, South Haven, Mich., a civil war captain, as a lighthouse keeper, averted awful wrecks, but a queer fact is, he might have been a wreck himself, if Electric Bitters had not prevented. "They cured me of kidney trouble and chills," he writes, "after I had taken other so-called cures for years, without benefit and they also improved my sight. Now, at seventy, I am feeling fine." For dyspepsia, indigestion, all stomach, liver and kidney troubles, they're without equal. Try them. Only 50 cents at James H. Williams.

A Call to Economy.

"The coal supply of the earth is limited," said the scientist. "No one can say how long it will last." "Great Scott!" exclaimed a man in the back row; "and we've gone and wasted more'n a bushel of it heatin' the hall for this lecture."

The Danger of la Grippe

GOOD ROADS LAW SEEMS ASSURED

The Bosworth Bill Seems Likely to Pass.

A DIGEST OF THE MEASURES

Bills Concerning Matter of Vast Importance to the State.

MUCH NEEDED LEGISLATION

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 13.—Senator Joe F. Bosworth, the author of the good roads measure in the Legislature, is very hopeful, in fact confident, that the General Assembly at the present session will enact a comprehensive good roads law. He is the chairman of the Senate Committee on Public Ways and Internal Improvements, which will consider the good roads legislation. Speaking of his bill, Senator Bosworth said:

"Kentucky has no State road organization, but there are now pending before the Legislature two bills of vast importance to every section of the State, and all citizens interested in improving the conditions under which our roads and bridges are constructed and maintained should give some attention to them and lend their influence in every possible way to have these measures passed and become operative."

"The pending bills provide for a State Highway Commissioner of Public Roads, who shall be a competent civil engineer, and will, acting under the Department of Agriculture, have charge of the construction of all roads built under the provisions of State aid."

"Provisions are made for raising a State road fund to be used in granting aid to counties that bond themselves to build permanent roads, and also to counties that spend money not procured from the sale of bonds in building or repairing permanent roads."

"The State aid is for the purpose of influencing counties to build more and better roads by paying one-third of the cost of roads from a general tax levied upon the assessed property of the State. By this method counties not expending money to build roads will receive no aid from the State, but counties taking advantage of the State aid will be assisted to the amount of one-third of the money they expend in constructing or reconstructing roads. Under this arrangement all counties pay into the State road fund, and must build roads or lose their part of the State road fund. The whole scheme of State aid is designed to make every county not having good roads already, get into the road-building business, and make all counties now having good roads put the proper amount of money into first-class maintenance."

"The office of County Highway Engineer is provided for, and modern and systematic methods of handling work are mapped out in detail. The design of that portion of the bill which deals with county administration seems to be to secure a better, closer and more scientific method of constructing and maintaining roads by county authorities and at the same time leave the county administration in the hands of the Fiscal Courts as at present. In other words, the County Engineer will be a person qualified to advise the court on road and bridge work in an intelligent manner."

"All through these measures are references to State and county funds, which demonstrates that the bills were designed with the one purpose in sight, viz., to get value received in all moneys expended in building roads, and also to expend plentifully in the construction of good roads."
